Airbus says it plans to test a self-flying vehicle to transport people in the sky above busy city streets. Testing of The "air taxi" is expected to start before the end of 2017, according to Airbus CEO Tom Enders. France-based Airbus is one of the largest airplane manufacturers (制造商) in the world. It makes airplanes, helicopters and space equipment.

“One hundred years ago, urban transport went underground, now we have the technology to go above ground,” Ender told reporters. He said that while Airbus is just starting to experiment with flying vehicles, it is taking the developments “very seriously.” “If we ignore these developments, we will be pushed out of the business,” Enders said.

The flying vehicles would be part of a taxi-style service allowing riders to book through an App, the same way as car-sharing companies.

Enders added that flying vehicles can greatly reduce costs for city infrastructure(基础设施) projects like roads and bridges. Airbus is looking at using electric vehicles to avoid adding more pollution to crowded cities.

Last October, ride-sharing company Uber announced its plan to use flying vehicles in the future to avoid ground traffic around cities. Uber’s plan would use small, fully electric aircraft that could take off and land like a helicopter, without the need for long runways. The company said its flying vehicles would also be much quieter and less polluting than helicopters. Uber has said its planned flying service could become reality within 10 years.

18. How will users get “air taxi” service in the future?

- A. With their plane tickets.
- B. With their smart phones.
- C. By buying flying vehicles.
- D. By joining the Airbus Company.

19. Why does Airbus take the “air taxi” developments seriously?

- A. It would otherwise lose the market in the future.
- B. Airbus is the only company to develop air taxis.
- C. The developing process could take over ten years.
- D. City streets are getting more and more crowded.

20. What will be a major advantage of electric flying vehicles?

- A. Lower traveling cost.
- B. Safer trips for citizens.
- C. Less noise and pollution.
- D. Longer traveling hours.

18 题 B 细节题。根据题目 “air taxi” service 定位到第三段, The flying vehicles would be part of a taxi-style service allowing riders to book through an App, 意思为 “通过 APP 来预订”, 可知要通过 “智能手机”, 所以正确答案为 B.

19 题 A 细节题。根据题目 take the “air taxi” developments seriously 定位到第二段, “If we ignore these developments, we will be pushed out of the business” 意思为: 如果我们忽略这些发展, 我们将被逐出市场, 可知正确答案为 A.

20 题 C 细节题。根据题目定位到文章最后一段 The company said its flying vehicles would also be much quieter and less polluting than helicopters, 可知正确选项为 C.

C

以下为 A (易), B (难) 两种题型, 任选一种, 做 A 种题型的不做 B 种, 做 B 种题型的不做 A 种。

Every year the entertainment magazine People publishes a list of who it considers the most beautiful people in the world. How do the editors choose from the 7 billion people on the earth? What makes a person beautiful or ugly?

Last year the magazine named Jennifer Aniston the most beautiful woman in the world. Many people would agree that she is good-looking. However, those same people are likely to differ about how good-looking Jennifer is. But why do some people find Jennifer Aniston gorgeous and others think she is just attractive?

A new study suggests that what a person finds good-looking in another person is shaped by the observer's environment and experiences. Beauty, say experts, is very individual.

Laura Germine is a researcher in Harvard Medical School. She co-led the study in which over 35,000 people took part by rating the faces of people in photographs. The scientists got a good idea of the face preferences of different people from examining the choices made by the online group.

Then the researchers turned to twins. Identical twins (同卵双胞胎) share 100% of their genetic material. So, the scientists expected that the identical twins would share an identical face preference. In fact, the preference for beautiful faces agreed only about 50% of the time even among twins. The findings suggest that environmental experiences have as much influence on people's idea of beauty as genetics.

So it could be that if a person has a relationship - a romantic or friend relationship --- with someone they are very close to or they really like, the characteristics of that person's face will then seem more attractive to them even on other people. In other words, beauty appears very much to be in the eye of the beholder.

21. Which word in Paragraph 2 is the closest to the meaning of "the most beautiful"?

- A. Good-looking.
- B. Likely.
- C. Attractive.
- D. Gorgeous

22. What does the underlined word "individual" mean in the third paragraph?

- A. Different for different people.
- B. Divided into several parts.
- C. Similar across the world.
- D. Not important or valuable.

23. Why do the researchers turn to twins for further studies?

- A. To include more people in the online research.
- B. To find out how genetics influences preference.
- C. To prove twins have special genetic connections.
- D. To add various age and social groups to the study.

24. Which of the following factors has the strongest influence on our face preference?

- A. Expressions.
- B. Science.
- C. Entertainment.
- D. Relationships.

25. What's the main idea of the passage?

- A. Identical twins have similar tastes for beauty.
- B. People disagree on Jennifer Aniston's beauty.
- C. Preference for beauty is mainly shaped by experiences.
- D. Jennifer Aniston was on the cover of the People Magazine

21. What shapes an observer's preference for beauty?

22. Who did the People Magazine choose as the most beautiful woman in the world last year?

23. What were the 35,000 people asked to do for the research?

24. What are the chances that twins share the same preference for beautiful faces?

25. Translate the underlined sentence into Chinese in the last paragraph.

21. 答案是 D. 根据第二段中 “Many people would agree that she is good-looking. However, those same people are likely to differ about how good-looking Jennifer is. But why do some people find Jennifer Aniston gorgeous and others think she is just attractive?” 可知 but 之后是人们对 Jennifer 的美的进一步评判，相对于 just attractive 而言，gorgeous 更能

突出 the most beautiful。

22. 答案是 B. 第三段第一句表明, 一个人的 good-looking 是由观察者所处的环境和经历而决定的, 所以对于 beautify 一词而言, 不同的观察者有不同的理解。individual 指, 对于 beauty 因人而异。

23. 答案是 B. 根据题干 Twins 定位于文章第五段, Then the researchers turned to twins. Identical twins (同卵双胞胎) share 100% of their genetic material. 可得出答案。

24. 答案是 D. 文章最后一段提到 “So it could be that if a person has a relationship - a romantic or friend relationship - with someone they are very close to or they really like, the characteristics of that person's face will then seem more attractive to them even on other people.” 因此可知答案是 relationship.

25. 答案是 C. 本题是主旨题。这篇文章通过 Jennifer Aniston 的例子引出主要内容: 人们对于 beauty 的评判主要与个人经历有关。A 项 identical twins 只是文章中的第五段阐述的内容, 太过片面; B 项未提及作者对于 Jennifer Aniston 的外貌评判; D 项只是文章用来引出主要内容的一个例子, 也不能起到概括全文的意思。

21. Environment and experiences.

22. Jennifer Aniston

23. To rate the faces of people in photographs.

24. About 50% of the time.

25. “美是个人的主观感受” 或 “情人眼里出西施”

第二节 (共 5 小题; 每小题 2 分, 满分 10 分)

根据短文内容, 从短文后的选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。答案写在答题卡上。

Dear CH,

Hello. My cat, Shadow, was watching TV with me and drank a few sips of my strawberry milk. It had been on the table and he drank it when I wasn't looking. I am concerned whether this may affect him because I do not know if he has ever drunken milk or strawberry milk. I am only 8. So I don't know what to do. Please help me.

Maggie

3. 以后要注意看好 Shadow, 尽量不让它自己吃东西;
4. 如果发现它有什么不适, 让父母带它去宠物医院。

参考词汇: pet owner, amount, keep an eye on, discomfort, harmful, animal hospital

注意: 1 可适当增加细节, 使行文连贯; 2 词数 80~100 个词; 3 开头和结尾已给出; ;总词数 80-100。

Dear Maggie,

I'm so sorry we weren't able to get to you sooner. Thank you for being a very responsible pet owner and having concern when your pet ate something he shouldn't have. Good news, though! You don't have to worry. Although milk isn't the safe thing for cats, small amounts shouldn't be harmful. If possible, try to keep an eye on him so that he doesn't get to eat or drink by himself. Of course, if you notice that he is having any discomfort or behaving curiously, please let mom and dad know so they take him to the animal hospital for an examination. Thank you again for being such a caring owner. Let us know if you need more help.

Yours,

Li Hua, Children's Helpline
